

Journey through My Shoes

By R.S.

My shoes tell that I love the flowers, beach and the sea. My shoes also tell that the sky is the limit so I set my goals high because I know that I can achieve and do anything I set my mind to do!

I picked sky blue, seashells, flowers and a few pebbles. I also used cotton balls to make the clouds and some butterflies and leaves.

This was relaxing and peaceful!

This Walk

I was given this sole to depict the journey of my life stroll
My beginning had no direction, creatively nor with any amount of reflection

Then I planned and tried to surmise how my boot should look in other's eyes
No matter how I tried this boot didn't reveal my stride
I gave into not having such control, life will embroider on your soul
It was so clear like the stones
I've placed around my boots sole Mistakes are wisdom to behold,
I will garnish me with experience new and old

Decorate me with my successes muted and bold, triumphs that can't go untold
This walk is mine, stumbles and strolls Trips and skips and even standing still, a constant evolution if you will I am where I was destined to be with and without plans to design me.

My Journey Though My Shoes

By D.W.

I used to walk to the next town over. I felt like I was having an adventure. Dressed in comfortable clothes and proper walking sneakers, I would explore the city. I would study the architecture of old buildings. My sneakers were given to me by my grandmother, who gave the advice that it's important to have shoes that give you support.

My shoes as a teenager and young adult were stylish and fierce. I remember having a pair of shoes that were decorated with buttons of different sizes and colors. I'd pull those out when I wanted to look very, very cute!

I think my shoes reflect my personality: bright, colorful, professional, sassy as well as sexy! My shoes speak of my journey in life, where I've been and where I'm going. Creating my shoes allowed my personality to be seen. My shoes tell of my heritage. My shoes tell the story of my victories in life!

My Journey through My Shoes

The past is a lot of bad things I don't care to talk about. My future is me moving on to accomplish my GED so that I can become my own boss. I plan to open up my own business to provide childcare.

Blackness would show my past. Present shows my family standing beside me and moving forward with me.

My Journey through Shoes

By L.R.

My shoes tell about my future, how I am into beauty and how I like to live, laugh and love every day of my life. I love fashion and I want to go to beauty school.

I used flowers, my favorite color pink, the words Live, Love, Laugh and what I'm interested in – beauty!

It was relaxing. I enjoyed the project a lot.
