

Reasons People Don't Complete the Census

The Census Bureau conducted a survey to understand why people don't want to or don't complete the census form. In 2018 they sent the survey to 50,000 households all over the United States and they got 17,500 responses. There were 4 main reasons people didn't want to complete the census in 2020. Before reading about those 4 main reasons, brainstorm (or make a list of) all the possible reasons you can think of.

A) Before brainstorming, take a moment and think...

- a) Do you want to complete the census? Why or why not?
- b) Are there people you know who don't want to complete the census? Why don't they?

B) Brainstorm with your classmates: Reasons people don't want to complete the census, write your list in the table below.

A Census Bureau study in 2018 found 4 main reasons people don't want to complete the census. The 4 reasons are:

- a. They don't care and or they don't think it will benefit them or their community
- b. They have concerns about data, confidentiality and privacy
- c. They are scared they will get in trouble with law enforcement
- d. They don't trust the government

C) Discuss with your partner: Did you and your classmates think of all 4 of these reasons? Do you agree with any of them?

D) People who know a lot about the census understand that people have their reasons for not wanting to complete the census, but they also know the truth about the census. Look at the table below. In column A you see the misunderstandings people have about the census and reasons they don't want to complete it. In column B you see a list of facts and information that address people's concerns or correct their misconceptions. Match each item in column A to the appropriate item in column B.
